Membership Levels

Three levels of membership are recognized by ANFRC:

Full Membership- This level of membership indicates that the site submitted evidence of attainment of the standards outlined in the self-study and had no shortcomings in any of the critical areas of performance. Full Members are authorized to participate in all meetings and training events of ANFRC and to participate in funding opportunities that may arise on behalf of ANFRC. Full Members must periodically resubmit an ANFRC application to ensure continued attainment of membership standards.

Associate Membership- This level of membership indicates that the site submitted evidence of attainment of most of the standards outlined in the self-study and had limited shortcomings in any critical areas of performance. Sites accepted in this category may request an ANFRC mentor to advise the site in preparing for Full Membership. Associate Members are authorized to participate in all activities, meetings and training events of ANFRC, but will not be included in any funding efforts put forth on behalf of ANFRC. Associate Members may reapply for membership status changes in July 2000, and at least annually thereafter.

Provisional Membership- This level of membership indicates that the site submitted evidence of attainment of some of the standards outlined in the self-study and has moderate shortcomings in several critical areas of performance. Sites accepted in this category may request an ANFRC mentor to advise the site in preparing for Full Membership. Provisional Members are authorized to participate in all activities, meetings and training events of ANFRC, but will not be included in any funding efforts put forth on behalf of ANFRC. Provisional Members may reapply for membership status changes in July 2000, and at least annually thereafter. Provisional Members do not have to achieve Associate Member status before attaining Full Membership.
